City of San José designates Small Business Saturday

City urges consumers to Shop Small on November 26, 2011 to encourage job growth, maintain the environment and support public services

SAN JOSE, Calif. - On Tuesday, November 8, 2011, San José's Mayor and City Council joined other communities nationwide in proclaiming November 26, 2011 as Small Business Saturday. This campaign to prompt residents to dedicate a portion of holiday shopping to local, independently-owned small businesses aligns closely with the City's Shop San José Initiative. Both acknowledged the importance of small businesses to the strength of the San José economy and encourage consumers to help create local jobs, maintain the environment and sustain local public services through their purchasing choices

"I am pleased to accept this proclamation on behalf of Women Impacting Public Policy and the Small Business Saturday Coalition," said Lynn Bunim, Director Special Projects at WIPP. "We salute YOU and the team here this afternoon that is making the Shop SJ Initiative the envy of other cities. YOU really "get it"that is you really understand the economic importance of your local, independently owned small businesses."

American Express, the founding sponsor of Small Business Saturday, is joined by Facebook, FedEx, Google and hundreds of other businesses and organizations to build on last year's inaugural program that drove millions of dollars to main street merchants.

"These initiatives are an important way to connect our residents with the many great shops, restaurants and small businesses located here in San José," said Mayor Chuck Reed. "I hope all of our residents will take this opportunity to support local businesses that provide jobs in our community and bring tax revenue to our city."

American Express and Facebook are helping further by offering $100 in free advertising on Facebook and offering card holders a $25 credit for use at any locally-owned, independent small business that accepts American Express.

“Social media tools now make those connections easier than ever to achieve,” explained Jeff Ruster of the City of San José Office of Economic Development. “Now, consumers can find new local companies,” said Ruster. “With recommendations from their friends and people whose opinions they trust on sites like Yelp or LikeList, they can also get special San José-specific offers and experiences from LivingSocial, Dishcrawl, or Trubates.”

Councilmember Rose Herrera (District 8) suggested that the reasons to shop local extend beyond convenience. “Buying goods and services in San José helps create local jobs as opposed to shopping online with an out-of-area retailer. San José residents can also maintain the environment by choosing to patronize a San José business rather than driving long distances.”

Councilmember Herrera, who is the Chair of the Community & Economic Development Committee, also pointed out that the sales taxes from local purchases support public services. “San José residents can help sustain their parks and libraries by spending money locally that they would have spent anyway. I was surprised that, as a community, we buy $1.9 billion more in goods and services than expected outside San José. If all of us commit to shopping locally, some of that money will come back into the community and help pay for services like Police and Fire.”

ABOUT SMALL BUSINESS SATURDAY

November 26th marks the second annual Small Business Saturday, a day to support the local businesses that create jobs, boost the economy and preserve neighborhoods around the country. Small Business Saturday (SBS) was created in 2010 by American Express in response to small business owners’ most pressing need: creating more demand for their products and services. 1.5 million Facebook users, 130 public and private organizations, and 41 elected officials declared their support for SBS last year. 100,000 small businesses downloaded SBS marketing materials, 10,000 businesses signed up for free Facebook advertising that ran on SBS and 200,000 consumers registered their American Express cards to receive $25 statement credits when they shopped at a small business on SBS. In the first year, small retailers who accept the American Express Card saw a 28% increase in sales on SBS.

ABOUT THE SHOP SAN JOSE INITIATIVE

Officially launched on October 12, 2011, Shop San José is a new program to educate San José residents about the importance of purchasing their goods and services in their own community. At the same time, the Shop San José initiative encourages businesses to engage in social media to capture some of the $1.9 billion in sales that are unexpectedly spent by San José residents outside of their community currently. These dual approaches will help create local jobs, maintain the environment and support local public services. Consumers and businesses can find out more at www.ShopSanJose.biz the “Shop San José” section of www.BusinessOwnerSpace.com respectively.
